

DIGITAL IMAGE STORAGE SYSTEM AND DIGITAL IMAGE STORAGE

Abstract of Disclosure

A digital image storage system includes an adapter on which the digital camera is to be laid down for the purpose of taking out digital images in a memory of the digital camera and a digital image storage located apart from the adapter for communicating therewith. The digital image storage includes a detector that detects a signal from the adapter, a function unit that causes the taking out of the digital images in response to the signal, and a storage medium that stores the taken out digital images.

Figures